

He Is Honored

COMMISSIONER SCOTT

BANQUETED

Honoring a Worthy Young Man
Mr. Emmett J. Scott, of Tuskegee, Alabama, was the guest of honor last Thursday evening at a magnificent banquet at Gray's Cafe, 1313 E street, northwest, tendered by upwards of a hundred citizens of Washington and representative colored men of the country at large. The function was designed as a compliment to Mr. Scott's very satisfactory service as a member of the Commission sent by the United States Government to investigate the political, social and industrial conditions of the West African Republic and to suggest ways and means by which this nation could intervene in behalf of its struggling foster-child. It was the aim of the Commission to discover, if possible, some method by which Liberia's threatened dismemberment at the hands of foreign powers could be prevented, and how the United States might assist in the development of its vast natural resources and to build up a commerce worthy of the name. Mr. Scott and his associates spent several weeks in Liberia and the bordering countries and their report is now in course of preparation for presentation to the President and the State Department.

Mr. Ralph W. Tyler, Auditor for the Navy Department, acted as toastmaster, and set a new pace in that important office by his witty sallies, good-humored jibes and satirical references to the current happenings in which the speakers were prominently identified. Mr. James A. Cobb, Assistant United States Attorney, responding to the toast, "Our Guest," paid a lofty tribute to the work and worth of the Commissioner-Diplomat, to which Mr. Scott replied in fitting terms, giving a clear and comprehensive, yet modest statement of what the representatives of the United States had tried to accomplish through their investigations in the "Dark Continent." Without forestalling his official report to the government, Mr. Scott told in an entertaining way of the character of the people in control of Liberia, of their habits and customs, and lauded the open-handed hospitality which greeted the Commissioners from the time they set foot upon the African shore until they regretfully said "Adieu." He painted a hopeful picture of the future of the Republic, as he had perceived within the elements of a strong national character, a determination to preserve their territorial rights and an intense desire to keep abreast of the ideals and standards set by the people of America. Mr. Scott considers Liberia the richest spot on the face of the earth, considering its area, and felt that with the proper help, the patriots there could establish for all time to come a tangible evidence of the self-governing ability of the black man. Mr. Scott's remarks were listened to with the closest attention and at the close he was given an ovation, the guests rising and drinking a toast to his continued good health and happiness.

Others who responded to appropriate toasts were Major John R. Lynch, paymaster in the United States Army; Judge Robert H. Terrell, of Recorder of Deeds; W. T. Vernon, the Municipal Court; John C. Dancy, Register of the Treasury; Professor Roscoe Conkling Bruce, Assistant Superintendent of the public schools; Dr. W. Bruce Evans, Principal of Armstrong Technical High School; Drs. A. M. Curtis, E. D. Williston, and C. Y. Childs; Mr. R. R. Horner, of the Board of Education; Mr. Gilchrist Stewart, of New York; and Architect W. Sidney Pittman. All of the speeches were of an unusually high order—spicy, eloquent and informing, abounding at every possible point in praise of the wisdom and executive capacity of the guest of honor, and predicting even greater achievements for him in the afterlife.

Letters and telegrams, regretting inability to be present, were received from prominent men throughout the country, among them Dr. Booker T. Washington, Principal of Tuskegee Institute; Honorable W. H. Lewis, of Boston; Honorable Charles W. Anderson, of New York; Honorable Harry S. Cummings, of Baltimore; Fred. R. Moore, of New York, Editor of the New York Age; Attorney Thomas L. Jones, of the District bar; and Major R. R. Moton, of Hampton Institute.

Dr. Washington's telegram was in part, as follows:

"Very glad indeed Washington people are honoring Mr. Scott in way he deserves for hard and successful work he has accomplished on the Liberian Commission. He has acquitted himself in a creditable and praiseworthy manner."

As is well-known to the country, Mr. Scott has been, for more than twelve years, the faithful, discreet and far-seeing private secretary to Dr. Washington, and the latter loses no opportunity to express his sincere appreciation of the painstaking service rendered by this estimable young man, and candidly admits his indispensability to the well-being of the Tuskegee Institute and its allied activities. Mr. Scott is a native of Texas and graduated from Wiley University at Houston. A few years ago his alma mater conferred upon him the degree of Master of Arts.

Since the formation of the National Negro Business League by Dr. Booker T. Washington in Boston in 1900, Mr. Scott has been corresponding secretary of that great agency for commercial uplift, and has been the "right hand" of his distinguished chief in promoting its growth year by year. It was due to the agitation and persistent following up of the matter, that there are today three Negro bandmasters in the colored regiments of the United States Army, and through him President Roosevelt was moved to order that all of the four regiments be provided with Negro chief musicians, as rapidly as openings could be made.

The very congenial company which assembled to do honor to Commissioner Scott on this occasion included beside those already mentioned:

R. W. Thompson, Cyrus F. Adams, Robert A. Pelham, A. O. Stafford, A. F. Hillyer, H. C. Tyson, Arthur C. Newman, A. H. Glenn, James E. Walker, John C. Nalle, W. Calvin Chase, Arthur S. Gray, James W. Gray, Wyatt Archer, Dr. C. Sumner Wormley, George W. Davis, George F. Collins, Oliver Randolph, Thomas J. Calloway, John T. Howe, Charles T. Pointer, and Whitfield McInlay.

POSTSCRIPTS

The menu was delightful. Caterer James W. Bray showed the genuine "Chamberlain form" and spared neither pains nor expense to set out the best the market afforded.

It was James A. Cobb's first experience as chairman of a big banquet committee and he handled the delicate situation with the skill of a veteran, besides making the "speech of his life" in eulogy of the honored guest. It was Cobb's night to shine—and he shone.

Although compelled to come on crutches, on account of his recent siege of rheumatism, Editor W. Calvin Chase was on hand early. Nothing but his deep admiration for Mr. Scott could have drawn him from his home at night.

Judge Terrell's beautiful tribute to his old friend and patron, Major John R. Lynch, was one of the most impressive flights of the evening. As an all-around after dinner speaker, the Judge stands in a class alone.

As toastmaster, Auditor Tyler handed out a few "hot ones" that made everybody sit up and take notice—wondering what kind of a griddle he would use to broil his next victim upon. His baseball allegory, describing the school fight as it appeared on the diamond, brought down the house and prepared the guests to hear from Assistant Superintendent Bruce.

The wisecracks are trying to see where Gilchrist Stewart got his authority for pronouncing "cons" as if spelled with a long "a." The Brownsville hero soared higher than Orville Wright's aeroplane, but came down without a scratch, amid the cheers of the groundlings.

Dr. Washington's telegram of generous commendation of Commissioner Scott's labors was another significant indication of the breadth of the man. The "Wizard" never hesitates to "render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's," and is ever ready to share the spotlight with those who merit a place therein.

If there were any factions present, they kept the fact a dark secret. And there was no odor of the oil that might have been used to still the erstwhile troubled waters.

Major Lynch looked more vigorous that he did in the old days when he was "Fourth Auditor of the Treasury," and led the valiant Mississippi clans to victory in the quadrennial battles at the national convention. His able speech recalled the historical convention of 1884, when he was temporary chairman by motion of Theodore Roosevelt, and brought up the vivid recollection that at the age of twenty-four he was elected to Congress over the redoubtable General Chalmers in the famous "Shoestring district" of Mississippi.

The toastmaster's gentle hint that Dr. E. D. Williston's inauguration day staff got "cold feet" and failed to materialize on account of the weather and other things, may be taken by the friends of the genial medico as a capsule suggestion that he should have another chance on March 4, 1913.

The signal success of the Scott banquet is all the more creditable to the committee because it is the third spread for much the same company within the brief period of two months—and heretofore such "gilt-edged" feasts have been held not oftener than once or twice in a given year.

"The finest affair in a long time," was the unanimous verdict.

President William Howard Taft got an enthusiastic "hand" for appointing Commissioner Scott and giving him the opportunity to show the kind of metal he is made of.

The Commissioner's speech was a model of good taste and his story of the incidents of the trip and the honors lavished upon the trio, was devoid of anything savoring of bombast or "I-ism." It was gratifying to hear of the royal treatment accorded Mr. Scott, by the officers of the ships, refuting the silly effort of the bourbon New York Press to stir up race friction just upon the eve of sailing for Africa.

The floral decorations were the talk of those inclined to aestheticism, and the well-trained husbands carried a souvenir bouquet home to their "better halves."

Dr. Evans bore a striking resemblance to the multi-millionaire "Count of Monte Cristo." His speech was a telling one and the educational authorities could have found no paragraph that required the use of the "blue pencil."

From the advertisement, received for his abilities as a "nurse," Dr. Curtis should have no trouble in securing a houseful of diplomatic patients when he opens his sanitarium.

Professor Bruce admirably "side-stepped the trap which the wily toastmaster framed up for his feet. Nobody has ever been known to catch the bland assistant superintendent napping.

Register Vernon's classic figures and rose-colored periods gave evidence that he can twang the harp of forensic eulogium with the best of them, without drawing on "King John," "Runnymede," or "Magna Charta." The silver-tongued Kansan has no peer in the art of putting things gracefully, sympathetically and sincerely.

The newspaper men were "on the job."

Dividing the "big guns" at each end of the table was an innovation for which Caterer Gray deserves credit. There was no way for the crowd to lose its mental balance.

Over here we "tip" those who serve us. In Liberia they "dash" them. The — frequently means something else on this side of the water.

R. W. Thompson.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION

Attorney Joseph H. Stewart and Others Speak—Attorney L. M. King Not Greeted With Applause—His Interview

There was quite a number of citizens assembled in True Reformers' Hall last Monday night to listen to protests against the management of the colored schools. The first speech was delivered by N. P. Marshall, a member of the local bar, who said:

Assured of Hearing by Congress
"I have been assured that a hearing will be given the matter," said N. P. Marshall, President of the association, who presided, "and to Congress we propose to take it if necessary." It was also proposed to bring the attention of the city at large to the alleged unsavory conditions in the colored schools by a series of mass meetings to be held in different sections of the city at frequent intervals this fall, at which the various questions involved are to be discussed from all standpoints. These meetings will primarily be under the supervision of the Citizen's Association.

The principal address last night was made by President Marshall, who was succeeded in turn by Rev. D. F. Rivers, Alexander C. Garnet, L. M. King and Joseph H. Stewart. Each of them delivered short talks, Mr. King being introduced as "a friend of the opposition."

As Attorney King arose to address the meeting quite a number of ladies left the hall and remarked that they would not stay to listen to him. Attorney King said:

"It is not my purpose or intention in what I shall say to defend or approve any particular individual or school policy," said Mr. King. "I merely wish to express my sentiments, as I believe to be the right of every American citizen on an occasion of this kind. Judging from the remarks of the President, it appears that this meeting was called for the purpose of denouncing the Assistant Superintendent, Roscoe Conkling Bruce. And he has been denounced in the most scathing terms. If we are to believe what has been said about him, the average ten-year-old schoolboy is better fitted for his position than he is. Be this as it may, the Board of Education has considered these charges and Mr.

scathing terms. If we are to believe what has been said about him, the average ten-year-old schoolboy is better fitted for his position than he. Be this as it may, the Board of Education has considered these charges and Mr. Bruce has been exonerated. This board is a properly constituted body to take such actions. This being true, what possible good can be accomplished by the holding of indignation meetings against Mr. Bruce?"

"We are here to discuss the unsatisfactory school administration which has existed in this city for the past two years," Mr. Marshall said. "It is characterized by oppression, gag rule and internal discord of all kinds, and it is our purpose in the citizens' association here to remedy the conditions so far as it lays in our power."

Teachers Afraid to Appear
"The gag rule complained of is responsible. I have no doubt, for the total absence of teachers in this audience. They have not put in an appearance for fear of a possible reprimand or dismissal by their superior."

The speaker disclaimed any intention as the head of the agitation movement of seeking a school office for himself.

He reiterated that the sole hope of reward of all the agitators of the present movement was the realization of a clean, unbiased administration of the colored schools of the District.

Mr. Marshall reviewed the history of the public schools for the past 12 years and traced the origin of the connection of Mr. Bruce with the system.

"He is a theorist, he is unfair and unfit for his work here. He has every colored school in the city in an uproar and in discord," said Mr. Marshall in conclusion.

The meeting lasted until well toward midnight, adjourning at the call of the president.

that they and some of their followers were so blinded in their prejudicial feelings against Mr. Bruce that they were unwilling to hear the other side.

"Wise men err, fools never." "I only spoke five minutes and was then stopped by the president who had himself spoken one hour, besides two other affirmative speakers who

PUBLIC SCHOOL INDIGNATION MEETING

Lawyer L. Melendez King Intervued as to his Remarks at True Reformers' Hall

A representative of The Bee saw Lawyer L. Melendez King for an interview as to his connection with the indignation school meeting held at True Reformers' Hall Monday, July 19, 1909.

Mr. King was asked, "How about the newspaper statements that you led the opposition for Mr. Bruce and were hissed, etc?"

Mr. King replied:
I have no personal knowledge of any hissing while I was speaking. I believe that such newspaper reports were circulated by the anti-Bruce faction in order to discredit anyone holding an opposite view to the one entertained by them. If there was hissing, as they say, is only showed consumed considerable time. I was not given a "square deal," after being called on to speak. The facts are that I was passing the hall and was asked to come in and take a seat on the stage. I was not formally invited to speak and was surprised that I was called on. However, I spoke as follows:

"It is not my purpose or intention, in what I shall say, to defend or approve any particular individual or school policy. I merely wish to express my sentiments as I believe to be the right of every American citizen on an occasion of this kind. Judging from the remarks of the President, it appears that this meeting was called for the purpose of denouncing the Assistant Superintendent, Roscoe Conkling Bruce. And he has been denounced in the most scathing terms. If we are to believe what has been said about him, the average ten-year-old schoolboy is better fitted for his position than he is. Be this as it may, the Board of Education has considered these charges and Mr.

Bruce has been exonerated. This Board is a properly constituted body to take such actions. This being true, what possible good can be accomplished by the holding of indignation meetings against Mr. Bruce?"

"More like holding an indignation meeting against the school board than against some individual. Still, the latter course, in my judgement, under the circumstances, would be exceedingly unwise to be indulged in by good citizens; such a course would be revolutionary in its nature and repugnant to our form of government. The School Board was placed in its present position by the properly constituted authority, to perform its duty the best it could under the circumstances. It has performed its work, attended to its business, and the wiser course would be for every man here to be at home, or some place else, attending to his duty. In my opinion he would reflect more credit upon himself and his race by so doing."

A WORTHY REPRESENTATIVE

Honorable Simon Guggenheimer, of Denver, Colorado, who is now serving his first term as United States Senator from that State, is making a record of which his constituents should feel proud. He is a strict party man and has stood by his party during the long debate on the tariff. He has been in constant attendance, never having missed a roll call.

This well known party man does not pose as an orator, but is a ready debater on all questions, especially those concerning his party or state.

For a long time Mr. Guggenheimer occupied a seat on the Democratic side of the Senate, but now he has a permanent seat on the Republican side of the Senate, where he is always surrounded by the leaders of the party discussing important questions of state or some important bill. As a senator from the great State of Colorado, and the only Republican from that State, he has a great responsibility upon his shoulders.

He is also National Committeeman from Colorado. No man stands higher with his party, and the future prosperity of the Republican party in Colorado depends upon his wise judgement, and The Bee feels safe in saying that his party will give him loyal support which will redeem the State from Democratic rule and control in 1910 and place her once more in the Republican column where she rightly belongs.

The Bee extends to the voters of Colorado its hearty congratulations in having such an able representative as Senator Guggenheimer to represent Colorado at the time when the rights and liberties of the American Negro are involved. It is the duty of every colored American in the State of Colorado to stand by the party and its able senator.

POPULAR BUSINESS MAN

The Bee presents to its readers Mr. Thomas Ruppert, of 145 B street, southeast. Mr. Ruppert was engaged in the grocery business in South Washington for over twenty years before he went into the saloon business. His patrons consist of the best class of white and colored citizens. This is one of the most popular resorts in the section. He keeps no "Jim Crow" bar. He treats all citizens alike. Give him a call.

A YOUNG LION SLAYER.

Boer Farmer Boys Make Good Shots On the African Veldt.

Three lions were killed near Pietersburg, Transvaal by the nineteen-year-old son of Josef Erasmus, a Boer farmer. It appears that young Erasmus was on his way to the Messina mine and had outspanned his donkey team, when his kaffir boy came running to tell him that three lions were tackling the donkeys. Erasmus seized his gun and ran hard in the direction indicated. On his arrival at the spot he found the lions lying around one of the donkeys. He fired and killed a big lioness. The other two jumped up but he was ready and shot another (younger) lioness. The young lion which was left ran behind some brushwood. Erasmus first collected his donkeys and brought them into safety and then once more carefully approached the scene of the fight. In order to find out if the two lionesses were dead he fired another shot at one of them. This disturbed the surviving lion who thereupon came forth roaring. Erasmus was again ready and shot him dead on the spot. Aaked by the Volksstem correspondent whether he was alone at the time, Erasmus replied: "Oh, no, Oom, I had my little kaffir boy, with me."—The skias were sold in Pietersburg.—Pretoria Volksstem.

Poisonous Brazilian Vipers.

Much is made of the lance-head viper, "the most deadly of all known reptiles," brought from Brazil to New York for the purpose of an operation which will give a serum that is practically extinct. There are several singularly interesting snakes in Brazil. The suru cusu is supposed to cause death in six hours. It is sometimes found nine feet long. Its skin is a dirty tawny yellow, with dark brown blotches on the back. It is said to be attracted by fire but seldom to injure travellers. The fiercest of the lance-headed vipers is the Jararaca, and it, also, it is dirty yellow, but it is brown-black about the tail.—Boston Herald.

Birds, Fruit, Dead Leaves.

The Moki Indian women of Arizona have an ingenious and romantic form of coiffure. When young these women coil their tresses at the sides of their heads, so as to represent the buds of a native plant. This signifies that they themselves are in the flush of youth and of marriageable age. When they are married their hair is arranged to represent the fruit of the plant; while in old age their locks hang straggling down their backs, typical of the withered stalk of the dead or dying plant.

Answers.

Brides Older Than Bridgetones.

The vital statistics prepared by City Clerk Entwistle of Salem shows that during 1907 there were 479 marriage licenses issued and 306 solemnized in the city, which is 18 fewer than the previous year. The oldest bridegroom was 68 and the oldest bride 60, while the youngest bridegroom was 16 and the youngest bride 15. Seventy-one brides were older than the bridegrooms.—Boston Transcript.

Vegetable Milk.

"Vegetable milk" is used in Japan. The liquid is exactly like cow's milk in appearance, and in taste can hardly be distinguished from it. To make it the beans are first soaked and then boiled in water. Some sugar and phosphate potassium are added, and it is boiled down till it has the consistency of condensed milk.

Valuable Relics.

At an auction sale at Christie's in London of the late Marchioness of Conyngham's art collection a silver ewer and dish, weighing together 90 ounces, a gift of George IV to an ancestor of the Marchioness, sold for $21,000.

A Venerable Turtle.

A Massachusetts boy, Nathan Sampson, has found a venerable turtle which bears markings made by his grandfather, now 81 years old, which were put on in 1840, and by his great-grandfather, who marked the same turtle in 1816.

Slightly Mixed.

The story is now going the rounds of the country papers about a man who visited the paying-teller's window in a bank and asked for one of the new coins with "God Bless Our Home" left off.

A Healthful Occupation.

Bull fighters receive $417 per hour, and the occupation is so healthful that unless killed by accident its followers invariably reach a green old age.

Newspapers in Persia.

Persian newspapers are reproduced from handwriting by lithography, no types being used.

Viennas Beggars.

Vienna has 32,000 street beggars, and many of them make a better living than workmen.

It has been estimated that a London fog weighs 3,000,000,000 tons.

COUNTERFEITERS' NEW SCHEME

How the Smooth Demonstrator Gets His Victim's Coin.

"One of the latest schemes of the counterfeit money swindlers is to show gullible people a machine, with which they can print for themselves large size bills, imitative of Government currency," said Capt. S. F. Rhodes, formerly of the secret service. "This money producing machine has a smooth demonstrator who will, after getting a prospective victim interested, turn the crank and grind out a $20 note, which, it is needless to say, is genuine. The victim shows the bill to a bank cashier, and hears it pronounced good, and his mercenary nature being aroused, he sees visions of gigantic wealth, and hands over to Mr. Sharp $500, or at least $250, for the instrument that is going to make him a Rockefeller. It is needless to say that the subsequent specimens turned out are such miserable imitations that they would hardly fool a blind man, but the ignoramus is in a place where he can't make a roar for his lost money."

The Swaying Skyscraper.

Through the chance of perfect adjustment in the way of balance, of a row of large photographs that hang on a wall in an office building down town the clerks in the place have a good deal of quiet amusement with persons who visit the place for the first time. Owing to this balance the pictures are easily swayed by the wind that blows through the open windows and since the office force goes in for fresh air the year round the pictures are never still. The joke lies in catching the horrified expression on the faces of the callers when they get a sight of the swinging frames. Then it is always explained with due solemnity, if the boss is not around that the swaying of the frames is due to the oscillation of the structure. It usually takes some time for the object of the joke to see the point. Meanwhile he has suffered a considerable shock.—N. Y. World.

Odd South American Animals.

Many curious animals haunt the marshy parts of South America north of the pampas. Frogs big and ferocious, given to making vicious springs when closely approached; the capybara, a cavy "contented with the bulk of a sheep"; the huge capybara rat and the swarthy piglike tapir are frequently seen. Along the forest margins troops of peccaries are often met with, occasionally the jaguar sometimes the puma, likewise that toothless curiosity, the great ant bear, long in claw, long nosed and remarkably long tongued. A familiar object is the great jabiru, a stork with a preference for the desolate lagoons, where it may often be observed statuesque on one leg and wrapped in preoccupation.—Scotsman.

The Ginkgo Tree.

Studies by Miss M. C. Stopes of the fossil flora of Scotland have shown that the ginkgo or maidenhair tree, a native of Japan and China, which is cultivated in Europe and this country on account of its remarkable foliage, belongs to an extremely ancient family, of which it is now, apparently, the last surviving representative. At one time it seems to have been widely spread. A singular fact is that the fossil specimens of the ginkgo, found in the rock beds of the Inferior Oolite series, at Brora, Scotland, are so similar to the living trees that at first sight no difference is apparent. Only an examination of the structure of the cells reveals a variation.—Youth's Companion.

For Pressing Plaited Skirts.

Plaited skirts which have been washed are difficult to press. Time and expense may be saved by having the work done after the following method, which is for plaited skirts especially: Before the skirt has become badly creased or runpled run a basting thread, using short, even stitches, down the entire length of each crease which marks the folds of the plaits. By this means, after the skirt has been washed, the proper location of each fold can readily be determined, and the pressing done successfully.

Balzac in Church Pew.

The woman who had left a volume of Balzac in the church pew on prayer meeting night felt a little bit ashamed when she asked for the book, but the sexton assured her she need not feel that way. "Many things are left in the church," he said, "and some of them are a whole lot less respectable than Balzac. After each service the pews yield a strange grist of forgotten or discarded articles."

A Clever Bear.

A noted ethnologist observed in Vienna a bear deliberately making with his paw, a current in some water which was close to the bars of his cage so as to draw a piece of floating bread within his reach. These actions of the bear could hardly be attributed to instinct or inherited habit, as they would be of little use to an animal in a state of nature.

Quill Toothpicks.

The largest quill toothpick factory in the world is near Paris, where there is an annual product of 20,000,000 quills. The factory was started to make quill pens, but when these went out of general use it was converted into a toothpick mill.

KINK.

A Beautiful Hair Dressing and Tonic for the Hair!

Read what Madam Robinson, the Famous Black Patti, Queen of the Opera, says of Kink-ine

PROF. ROBERTS, New York City, Dear Sir:

I have used your Kink-ine for the past year and my hair is growing very fast. I find it the most delightful hair dressing and tonic I have ever used, altogether different from the many cheap pomades and vaselines on the market. It makes my hair so beautiful, soft, silky, and has entirely removed all dandruff and stopped it from falling out and breaking off. And enables me to do it up in any of the many styles that I use on the stage. It does all you claim for it, and I would not be without it. Yours sincerely, MRS. ROBINSON.

Kink-ine Hair Dressing is a delightful perfumed tonic prepared largely for the use of colored people; is guaranteed to be absolutely safe and harmless. It makes harsh, stubborn, kinky, curly hair soft, silky and glossy, enables you to comb it with ease and to dress it in any style that you may wish.

MADAM ROBINSON

KINK-INE HAIR DRESSING by supplying the needed oils directly to the roots of the hair tones up and nourishes the scalp, increasing the growth and giving new life and vigor to the hair.

KINK-INE HAIR DRESSING is for sale at all druggists for 35c per bottle. If your druggist does not keep it have him order it for you; he can get it. If not, send me 50c. and I will send same to you, prepaid.

MADE TO ENTOMB A TARTAR GIRL

Austrian Mason Goes Insane After a Horror Among Caucasus Tribe.

Odessa.—Peter Kavulitch, an Austrian mason, went mad here as the result of brooding over being forced to wall up the daughter of the chieftain of a Tartar tribe in the Caucasus in a living tomb. He was kidnapped in Baku a month ago, taken blindfolded into the mountains, compelled to build the wall around the girl and then was turned loose outside Baku. For a week he led a party of soldiers in a vain attempt to find the girl.

The girl was condemned to death in the tomb because she eloped with one of her father's servants. She was engaged to the son of a wealthy Tartar, and all preparations had been made for the wedding. She was caught with the servant after a two days' chase, and was tried at a family council. It was decided to build a wall around her and leave her to her fate. Kavulitch was kidnapped, and he was taken into the mountains to find the whole tribe drawn up to witness the living burial of the girl.

The man protested against the work, but his life was threatened unless he obeyed. The girl was tied hand and foot to a stake. She implored mercy, but her cries were unheeded. A circle was drawn around her, and the mason was made to follow it with a wall two feet thick.

...his head, and a small opening was made for air, so that her sufferings might be prolonged. As soon as his work was finished Kavulitch was blindfolded again. He was set at liberty with 100 roubles in his pocket. He came to Odessa and went mad in the street. He was taken to a hospital in a straitjacket.

A LOAF OF BREAD PUT IN TWO COFFINS.

Half Buried with Wife, Husband's Grave Now Contains Other Part.

Brooklyn.—Adolph Raad, who formerly lived at No. 110 Laquer street, was buried in Greenwood Cemetery, the coffin containing one-half of a loaf of rye bread, the other half of which had been buried with Mrs. Raad four years ago. The aged couple were born in Ludenbach, Germany. They purchased a farm in what is now Flatbush, and as the city gradually encroached upon their farm land they cut it up and sold it until they were soon able to retire comfortably.

There is an old German custom of making a wish whenever a fresh loaf of bread is cut. On September 7, 1904, Mrs. Raad had just made the customary wish, and was about to cut a loaf when she dropped dead. The husband cut the loaf and put half in his wife's coffin. The other half was preserved in a tin box, the neighbors having been instructed to put it in his coffin.

THE WINDOW SILL MIRROR.

Rarely Seen in New York But Proliferous in Philadelphia.

Every once in a while you see one of them in New York but not often. They're commoner in Brooklyn, but are nowhere seen in the proportion that you find them in Philadelphia. Meaning of course, those mirror devices people have on the sills of the second floor windows to give a tip on who is coming up the street or down the street, or more important, who is at the front door. They strike the average observer as rather provincial in idea because he thinks instinctively of the shut in person who's only pleasure is in seeing who's on the street. But they're very helpful in telling when a caller is getting near, so that the woman of the house has time to make a hurried toilet and be calmly waiting in her very best when the visitor comes in. Also they give a chance to sound the "not at home" warning to the servants.—New York Sun.

Some Valuable Stones.

The Emperor Francis Joseph owns the Florentine, which has an eventful history. To the King of Portugal belongs the Star of the South, valued at $3,000,000; while in the Russian sceptre is the Orlov which once adorned a Brahmin idol, says Home Chat.

Such stones as these are so large that they are practically unsalable. No one person is rich enough to purchase them. Again the expense of cutting is enormous. The Cullinan diamond will require at least $10,000 to be spent on it for this alone. Even then, the gem now 3,024 carats, will weigh some 1,200 carats, while the sections cut away will themselves form valuable stones, ranging from twenty carats downward.

Singing Pigeons

The queer Chinese change pigeons into song-birds by fastening whistles to their breasts. The wind of their flight then causes a weird and plaintive music that is seldom silenced in the pigeon-haunted cities of Peking and Canton. The Belgians, great pigeon-flyers, fasten whistles beneath the wings of the valuable racing carriers, asserting that the shrill noise is a sure protection against hawks and other birds of prey. As a similar protection, reeds, emitting an odd wailing sound, are fixed to the tail feathers of the dispatch-bearing pigeons of the German army.

For the Knocker.

A new method by which the audience at a theatre can show its approval or disapproval of a play without disturbing the performance is being introduced by the Italian dramatist, Traversi. Before leaving the theatre every person is to drop a ticket into one of three boxes marked "good," "indifferent," and "bad."

A Fine Distinction.

While a small boy was fishing one Sunday morning he accidentally lost his foothold and tumbled into the creek. As an old man on the bank was helping him out, he said: "How did you come to fall into the river, my little man?" "I didn't come to fall into the river. I came to fish," replied the boy.—The Argonaut.

The Languages.

According to Mulhall's estimates 130,000,000 persons speak English, and 84,000,000 German. Russian is spoken by upwards of 85,000,000, but these numbers are far exceeded by the 360,000,000 to 400,000,000 Chinese and 140,000,000 or more Hindustani.

Shoo Fly!

You can put a mat in front of every plate but you can't make a fly wipe his feet before he walks on your food. The only safe course with regard to the fly is to exclude him from the house.

A Heavy Penalty.

The London Express mentions the case of a private who for failing to recognize and salute his officer was condemned to march past and salute a barrack pump for two hours each day for a week.

Trade Unions in Germany. Germany's trades unions number about 2,215,000 members, which is 25 per cent of the total strength of the labor organizations of the civilized world.

Irish Linen.

The linen industry is the greatest manufacturing industry Ireland possesses. There is invested in it some $15,500,000, and it gives employment to 70,000 people.

WILL NOT UNITE PHYSICALLY UNFIT

Rev. Dr. H. S. Johnson Utterances on Subject of Ill-Advised Marriages.

POVERTY MARRIAGES DISAPPROVED

Boston Pastor Discourages Mating on Insufficient Earnings.—Those with Communicable Diseases, Inherited or Acquired, Should Remain Single.

Boston, Mass.—"I will refuse to marry persons afflicted with consumption or any hereditary or communicable disease if I have personal knowledge of such ailments existing, and I am also opposed to marrying divorced people, except in the case of the innocent party," said Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, in this city.

"I do not think it advisable to marry young couples who are in poor circumstances. I believe, through observation and consultation, that a prospective bridegroom should have an earning capacity of at least $15 a week before he should consider the matrimonial venture. This statement, of course, does not apply in all cases, for there are always exceptions, but I think the union of persons in the middle class in this country, who are in poor circumstances, creates nothing but a hell on earth."

"When I made the statement some time ago from the pulpit of my church that I would marry any couple that wanted to get married if they did not have the marriage fee, my remark was a facetious one, made half in jest and half in earnest, but I will gladly perform the ceremony for any unfortunate couple that might have sinned, free of cost, if they apply to me and give evidence of good faith. It is a pitiable sight in a large city to see a young girl carrying a babe on her arm without a husband to show his love, or a father to provide for her and her offspring."

"I was, perhaps, led to make the statement that I would marry all such couples that applied to me through a case that came to me not long ago. Our church is so situated in the heart of the city that practicality is our chief aim. I became interested in a young girl who had sinned, and I appeared in court in her behalf. She was dressed in mourning and carried her babe on her arm. It developed that when her aged mother learned of the sin and disgrace of her daughter, she committed suicide by throwing herself into the river. And that is why I stand ready to help uplift the sinners that are making a struggle to live an upright and honorable life, and our church will assist them in every reasonable manner, such as finding employment for the husband, etc."

"Now as to the marriage of young girls and fellows in meagre circumstances. There has been and is constantly being brought to my attention cases of hasty marriages when neither person is in a financial condition to warrant their marriage. Fifteen dollars a week is little enough to defray the expenses of a home with its furnishings, its doctor's and nurse's bills, the support of children and the mite that should be given to charity by all Christians. Of course, when I place the weekly salary at $15 I refer only to the middle classes, that is Irish-Americans, or those of Anglo-Saxon extraction, and so forth. I don't refer to the lower class of people from Europe who can exist on much less."

"And in regard to persons afflicted with tuberculosis or other diseases of a hereditary nature to which man and woman are subject, it is my belief that a man or woman unfortunate enough to be affected with communicable diseases should be unselfish enough when they are aware of these diseases existing to be content to merely love the man or woman and not ask one to have whole lives blasted. It is a terrible thing to have children born into this world with the taint of disease upon them. Yet there are a great many marriages in this country in the course of the year when one or the other of the contracting persons is a victim of some communicable sexual disease, and is the cause of much misery and the loss to the United States of millions of dollars."

"I will not marry persons whom I know are afflicted thusly, and if there is any suspicion in my mind I will ask them frankly about the matter. A man should be as unselfish and sacrificing in such matters as the soldier or the fireman or the hundreds of other heroes, and it is their duty to humanity as well as to their country that they cast aside all thoughts of marriage when they know they are unfitted to become husbands and fathers."

"I have steadfastly refused to marry divorced persons, unless in the cases of the innocent persons. There are innumerable cases of innocent persons being divorced through no fault of theirs and they should not be compelled to suffer for the sins of the guilty."

WHERE IS DR. WASHINGTON?

Under the above caption, The Brooklyn Eye, in its last issue, ran an editorial, from which we quote the following:

"Having lost faith in the fairness of the United States Supreme Court, several bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church made a complaint before the Inter-State Commerce Commission in reference to discrimination on account of color practiced by southern railroads. The commission dismisses the complaint and the matter is closed.

"Why does not Dr. Booker T. Washington, in as much as he has been designated leader of Afro-Americans, lend the power of his influence towards securing a favorable decision when such matters as these come up?"

Where was Dr. Washington when the earth quaked at San Francisco? Where was he when Messina in Italy fell? Where was he when Martinique was engulfed with the burning lava from old Mont Pelee? It is just as reasonable to ask the above questions as to ask where was Dr. Washington in the case before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The purpose of The Eye was to convey the impression that Dr. Washington had no sympathy with the case of the bishops, and that had he been interested a decision would have been rendered favorable to the bishops. The fact is this case was primarily and secondarily the bishops' case. They managed it exclusively, and had they succeeded would have taken all the glory. Now that they failed, by allowing their case to be conceded out of court, the enemies of Dr. Washington are not only willing, but anxious, that the Doctor accept the onus for defeat. We do not say that Dr. Washington, had he had the case to manage, would have secured a favorable decision, but we do say that had Dr. Washington been consulted as to how to proceed, the attorney he would have suggested would not have conceded the case out of court. These anti-Washingtonites deal exclusively in advice, while Dr. Washington deals in practical and tangible benefits. They deny him credit for what he does accomplish, and censure him for the failure of others to accomplish what they set out to accomplish without asking or desiring his aid.

To The Eye's question, "Where is Dr. Washington?" we can answer that he is constantly on his job of helping the very persons who, like a pack of curs, are barking at his heels.

A NEGRO TICKET?

The Bee has been under the impression that all fool Negroes had died out, but it sees from a dispatch to this city that it is mistaken. The dispatch states, which will be seen in another column of The Bee, that the Negroes of Virginia intend to nominate an entire State ticket. Just what they expect to accomplish The Bee doesn't know. In the first place, three-fourths of the Negroes in the State are disfranchised. Not one-fourth has paid the poll tax. What showing will the Negro voters make at the polls. Instead of advising the colored people to worry over a Negro ticket, The Bee would suggest that these men advise the colored men to stick to their farms and let Negro politicians attend to their own business and do their own voting.

Suppose a Negro governor could be elected, what would he do? Former experience in other States demonstrated the fallacy of Negro and carpet-bag rule.

The Bee would be pleased to see Negroes given the power to rule, but they should first learn the science of government. The Negro lacks the power of cohesion. He can't appreciate the elevation of one of their number. It would not be long, if a Negro governor were elected, before he would be assassinated by one of his own people. Every Negro in the State would want to be governor, and the revolution in Haiti would be only a mockery to those that would exist in the State of Virginia under Negro rule.

If these men who are anticipating placing a Negro ticket in the field would stop to think for a moment they would advise the plow, the hoe, and the spade on a farm.

The condition of the colored Americans in this country is due to the unwise act of Negro politicians. They have been an impediment to the Negro Americans. They are for self, and not for the masses. The masses cannot be benefited by a few holding offices. There are more important things for the Negro to seek than after a few petty offices.

The masses must be benefited, and not a few Negro office politicians.

MUST NOT BE

"There must be no more trouble in the High School," remarked Captain James F. Oyster, President of the Board of Education. This is the way The Bee wants the Captain to talk and act accordingly. The President of the Board of Education is very sympathetic as well as positive. The importation of an outsider as Principal of the High School was a mistake. There are plenty of competent teachers in the schools from whom a selection could have been made. If John C. Nalle was qualified to retain his position as Supervising Principal, he is competent to be at the head of the Negro High School. Professor Montgomery would have made a good Principal.

The Negro schools seem to be upside down. There is something radically wrong in our schools. Mr. Stafford would have made a good principal of the High School. This school agitation will result in harm to the schools. It is to be regretted. An investigation of conditions in the High School will disclose some facts that will warrant additional removals. At least two more transfers from the High to some other school will result in some good.

HE HONORS US

That dinner to Mr. Emmett J. Scott, by the men of Washington last Thursday night was a modest testimonial to a modest, but thoroughly capable man. And that dinner was also a complete answer to those men who doubted the wisdom of sending him as a Commissioner to Liberia, the men who said, "this is no time to send two-by-fours." As a commissioner he more than made good. He returned bringing honor to his race, and further evidence that, although there are far more noisy men than he, there are mighty few men his equal, and a far lesser number his superior. He has given proof that he is equal to big undertakings. We honor Emmett J. Scott because he honors us.

EDUCATIONAL TRUST

There are all kinds of trusts in this country, but the most notorious of them all is the Educational Trust. If some highly educated individual would attempt to establish or organize an industrial school or college, and if he went to certain educators he would be asked if his enterprise had the indorsement of the National Educational Board. If he had no such indorsement or approval, no matter how worthy his enterprise may be, he will be turned down.

There are bogus and fake institutions in this country that are fakes. There is something in a name sometimes, and there are men with good names, but, without funds and men with bad names with the necessary funds.

WHICH WAY

One can generally tell the direction of the wind by feeling it when it blows. The sentiment of the citizens' meeting at True Reformers' Hall last Monday evening against one of the speakers is an evidence of how the people feel on the Negro school question. It is to the regret of the taxpayers that there should be such a division in the Negro schools. If there has been any favoritism shown it should be investigated.

The Bee is informed that an official requested another official to mark down a certain teacher. Now, if such things exist in the Negro schools they should be remedied immediately.

GOOD SELECTION

Captain L. J. Woolen, who dropped Thursday, July 13, was one of the best known steamboat men in this country. Captain Woolen's estate will be settled by three commissioners. Mr. Douglass P. Syphax, the well known and active real estate dealer, is one of the commissioners appointed. Mr. Syphax is a Washingtonian who has been in the real estate business for a number of years and he comes from one of the best known and one of the leading families in the city. There is no man more qualified than he is to settle the estate of Captain Woolen. No man has handled more of Captain Woolen's money than Mr. Syphax. Within the last year Mr. Syphax has handled thousands of dollars of Captain Woolen's money, and The Bee is confident that every cent will be accounted for. Mr. Syphax is an honest young man in whom implicit confidence may be placed. It was on account of his honesty and integrity that his appointment was urged and demanded by the widow and friends of the dead Captain.

Mr. Syphax has his real estate office at 503 D street, northwest.

SOCIAL NEWS

Mr. Gilchrist Stewart, on the eve of his departure from Washington to New York last Monday, entertained a number of gentlemen at a splendid luncheon at Gray's Cafe. It was a congenial assemblage, and wit and good humor prevailed around the board. Seated at the table were Mr. Emmett J. Scott, Mr. W. Sidney Pittman, Professor Roscoe C. Bruce, Mr. James A. Cobb, Judge R. H. Terrell, Mr. W. T. Vernon, Mr. R. W. Tyler, Mr. Thomas Clarke, Mr. John C. Dancy, Mr. A. H. Blenn, Mr. W. L. Pollard, Mr. W. B. Evans, and Drs. A. M. Curtis and E. D. Williston.

During his stay in Washington, Mr. Stewart added many friends to his already good list, and made stronger friends of those who were already his friends. All in all it was a charming little stag given by a host who knows how.

Professor Roscoe C. Bruce had a few friends at his house last Saturday evening to meet Mr. Emmet J. Scott. The affair was thoroughly informal.

KENILWORTH, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Hayson, of Kenilworth, District of Columbia, gave a delightful tea last Saturday evening upon their lawn, to Miss Lillian Schoolridge, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The lawn was beautifully decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns. Among the invited guests were Misses Kennedy, Miss Birdie Waring, Miss Waring, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Miss Jennie Richardson, Mrs. Cornish, Misses Ray and Fannie Cornish, Mrs. Hattie Boyd, Dr. Tignor, Mr. M. Saunders, and others.

PERRY CARSON WEDS AGAIN

Well-Known Negro Takes a Bride at Sixty-nine Sixty-nine and again a benedict. That is the score made last Thursday by "Uncle" Perry Carson, one of the best known Negroes in the District. Alice M. Carter, fifty-two years old, is the bride.

"I just got married to keep a promise and because I am getting old and want some one to take care of me," said Uncle Perry, when seen at his home, 920 Third street, northwest, last night.

Uncle Perry Carson is one of the oldest Negroes in the District. He had been connected with the municipal government for forty years up to the time he resigned about ten months ago.

He has been a delegate to several Republican conventions. He was first appointed to office by S. J. Bowen, first Republican mayor of Washington. When the form of government was changed and the present plan adopted, he was reappointed by Governor Cook.

Colonel Carson was a power in the District during the days of suffrage, wielding an immense influence and having a large following. In addition to the offices he filled referred to above, he served the late Governor Shepard as confidential messenger.

EXECUTIVE ORDER

James M. Alexander, of Los Angeles, a colored man, may be appointed as Cashier under the Collector for the Sixth Internal Revenue District of California, without respect to civil service regulations. This order is made because of the intention of President Roosevelt to make it at the time the District was created, but he was unable to carry out his intention because there was not sufficient money available until the beginning of the new fiscal year to organize the office. The ground upon which President Roosevelt intended to make the order was that Mr. Alexander was a colored man, that the colored population of California had not been properly recognized, and that the Collector of the new district was greatly desirous of having a man appointed in whose fidelity and capacity for the discharge of the particular position he had great confidence by reason of a personal acquaintance.

FUND. FOR ASBURY'S NEW CHURCH

The pastor, Rev. M. W. Clair, Ph. D., the officers and special committees of Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, 11th and K streets, northwest, have closed for the season the rally in their interest of the building fund for the new church edifice with a big meeting, which was addressed by Professor E. L. Parks, D.D., of Howard University; Rev. C. H. Young and Rev. R. E. Jones. Following these exercises, reports showed that the fund raised during the past six months from all sources was $1,924, and for the entire time since it was decided to build a house of worship, $36,000. This does not include other funds to be used for the same purpose and which were not raised by these building fund rallies. The new Calvary Protestant Episcopal Chapel, located in the northeast, Rev. Mr. Bennet, pastor in charge, was dedicated last Sunday.

NEGRO NATIONAL BUSINESS LEAGUE

PRINCIPAL OF M STREET HIGH SCHOOL

From the Star
E. C. Williams, librarian and instructor in Adelbert College of the Western Reserve University, has been appointed principal of the M Street High School, to succeed Mr. Jackson, who becomes a teacher of mathematics in the school.

As regards Mr. Williams' qualifications as principal, Charles F. Thwing, President of Western Reserve University, says:

"Mr. E. C. Williams is considering the question of retiring from the librarianship of this college (Adelbert). Mr. Williams is a graduate of Adelbert College of the class of 1892, being the first scholar. Soon after his graduation he became connected with this library, and was presently promoted to its headship. At the time of the establishment of the library school, four years ago, he became instructor in bibliography, reference works, criticising and selection of books. In particular as a reference librarian I believe him the best in Cleveland, and among the best of my librarians. As a teacher he is apt, forcible, impressive, successful. Mr. Williams is also a good friend; I especially delight in his friendship. In any place which he is willing to accept, Mr. Williams will give a good account of himself."

ColoredSkin MadeLighter Excursion Season For 1909

The Chemical Wonder Company of New York manufactures seven Chemical Wonders which enable colored people to improve their appearance. These wonders cost 50 cents each. White people spend millions to beautify themselves. Colored people should make themselves attractive as possible. Colored men who use these wonders secure better situations in banks, clubs and business houses. Colored women occupy higher positions socially and commercially, marry better, get along better.

(1) Complexion Wonder Creme makes dark skin lighter colored, not with artificial white, but naturally; makes the skin itself lighter colored every time it is applied. Keeps the skin healthy, soft, fine. Makes any colored face more attractive. Improves any colored countenance like magic.

(2) Magneto-metallic comb, called Wonder Comb, can be heated before using and will straighten any hair. Will last a lifetime.

(3) Pomade, called Wonder Uncurl, uncurls kinks in hair and keeps it straight, lustrous and flexible. Wonder Uncurl heated into the scalp with a Wonder Comb will make the kinkiest head of hair look handsome.

(4) Wonder Hair Grow. Fertilizers in corn fields makes cornstalks grow, so this fertilizer rubbed into the scalp makes the hair grow longer, strengthens the scalp so it can hold the hair from falling out. It can be heated into the scalp with a Wonder Comb.

(5) Odor Wonder Powder instantly destroys perspiration odor. Thousands of men are barred from good salaries because of this unseen horror. Thousands of women are shut off from marriage and social life by this invisible barrier. People cannot detect perspiration odor on themselves. Every living being should use this powder.

(6) Odor Wonder Liquid is delightful as a toilet water; can be used with Odor Wonder Powder or separately. Surrounds the body with fragrance. A great luxury for those who can afford it.

(7) This pink variety of Complexion Wonder Creme No. 2 is called Shell-Pink. Gives lovely pink cheeks to light brown or mulatto colored faces. Light brown complexion with pink cheeks mark great personal beauty.

TUSK—ELEPHANTS.

Ceylon the Only Part of the World Where They Exist.

What a sight for a Ceylon elephant hunter would be the first view of a herd of African elephants—all tuskers! It is a singular thing that Ceylon is the only part of the world where the male elephants have no tusks; they have miserable little grubbers projecting two or three inches from the upper jaw and inclining downward.

Nothing produces either ivory or horn in fine specimens throughout Ceylon. Although some of the buffaloes have tolerably fine heads, they will not bear a comparison with those of other countries. The horns of the native cattle are not above four inches in length.

The elk and the spotted deer antlers are small compared with deer of their size in India. This is more singular, as it is evident from the geological formation that at some remote period Ceylon was not an island, but formed a portion of the main land. It is thought there must be elements wanting in the Ceylon pasturage for the formation of ivory.—Ceylon Manual.

Smokeless Coal.

A London inventor claims to have discovered a process for producing smokeless coal, apparently by distillation of coal at a low temperature. This, after distillation, is said to deposit a very brilliant substance, the heating properties of which are far greater than those of the original coal, and which is absolutely free from smoke and dirt. The inventor contends that efforts to overcome the smoke plague have hitherto been unsuccessful because they have been made in the wrong direction, and that by the extraction of the smoke-producing material in coal before being burned, he has been successful in producing a smokeless coal.

Electrocuting Animals.

The slaughter of animals for food by electrocution is being experimented by Dr. Leduc, a French scientist, who has been conducting his investigations in the French abattoirs. He has been using the intermittent low tension currents and says that he is satisfied that the system is painless, the central functions of perception being first destroyed and then those of circulation and respiration so that there is neither suffering nor reaction in the animals thus killed. The doctor is endeavoring to devise some piece of apparatus by which the killing of cattle may be accomplished by electricity with economy and celerity.

The Shy Man.

Women show no mercy to the shy man, for he stands outside of the compass of convention. Could he break out all might be saved; the man might be permanently cured. But he cannot. He has been brought up to respect convention. His muscles may be of steel, his heart of fire, but in his soul the spirit of diffidence holds him in a vice. In a drawing room he stands gaping, quaking, a prey to introspective torment—he who would perhaps storm a rampart with a triumphant mile of his lips.—London Observer.

Hanging Pictures Dangerous.

"Railroad casualties receive such wide publicity," said an insurance man, "that there is a common belief on the part of the public that one is more liable to accidents while traveling than when living the simple life in the confines of his home. As a matter of fact, statistics show that accident insurance companies pay more money to people who get hurt hanging pictures or taking stoves apart than they do to the victims of head-on collisions. It sounds strange, but it's the truth."—Kansas City Journal.

Three Men to Move Book.

There lies in the British Museum the largest book yet printed, a colossal atlas of engraved ancient Dutch maps. It takes three men to move it from the giant book case in which it is stored in the library of the museum. It is bound in leather, magnificently decorated, and is fastened with clasps of solid silver, richly gilt. It is nearly seven feet high and weighs 800 pounds and was presented to King Charles II. before he left Holland in the year 1660.

Valuable East African Forest.

The Colonial Office recently sent out an expert to report on the Kenia forest, in the East Africa protectorate. He finds the forest extends 127 miles long by eight miles broad, and comprises 1,000,000 acres of timber. Taking the average value of the 2 1/4 d. per cubic foot, this works out to £23 per acre, or a total value for the whole forest of £23,000,000.—London Tit-Bits.

Dead Historians.

I for my part believe in the dead historians. I glory in the possession of some hundreds of volumes by them. A great deal of cant is talked and written on this subject. There is an idea in some minds that a book on history to be good must be new. In nine cases out of ten the new book is a common-place re-statement of facts that were better presented by an older writer.—The Sphere.

A Man and a Woman.

A man's idea of being stylishly dressed is to wear something in which he looks atrociously bad; a woman to wear something no other woman can duplicate.

WITH THE "BREAD LINE"

A Thousand Men Are Fed Every Night.

THE BOWERY MISSION

At this Place—Fleischmann's May Be Found Men in Actual Need—It is the Aim of These Places to Send Away No Hungry Person.

The two policemen who were standing at the corner of Canal street and the Bowery as I approached them looked me over when they saw I was about to interrupt their conversation. It was anything but a pleasant sight; the coat I had borrowed for the evening was none too good, and the old shoes I wore were not waterproof. If my abject poverty was assumed, I felt a semblance of the real thing, for I was cold and tired after tramping up and down the muddy streets for an hour.

"Where kin a feller git a cup o' coffee 'r a handout?" I asked. One of the officers smiled affably. "Two doors up," he said, indicating one of the numerous five and ten-cent feeding places, of which there are one or two in every block in this neighborhood.

"I didn't mean that kind," I replied. "I've got to find a place where there ain't a price on the grub." "I guess the bread line at Fleischmann's or the Bowery Mission's the only place, then, Jack," said the officer as he turned his back on me. So I slouched along to 55 Bowery, where a sign in the window, reading, "Bowery Mission—Services Every Evening," indicated that I had found the right place. I looked in the door. The big room, filled with chairs, was dimly lighted, and on the platform at the far end, a man was moving some chairs around.

"Nothin' doin' yet, bo," said a rough-looking fellow. "They don't give ye no grub until 1 o'clock." This was disheartening, or would have been, had I really needed the food, for it was only a little after eleven. "I'm goin' up ter the bakery," the tramp continued. "Ye git your: at 12 sharp up there."

So we ambled up the Bowery to Eighth street, and from there to Tenth street and Fourth avenue. Already the waiting line extended from the rear door of the bakery around the corner to the entrance of Grace church. I dropped into the procession which in a few moments reached up Broadway to Twelfth street. I had been in the line but a short time when a clock nearby sounded for midnight. The line began to move along and the waiting men on either side of me cheered up a bit. There was very little conversation, however. Now and then some of them muttered curses, and once when a sightseeing automobile stopped at the corner the curses became quite audible.

After the line of waiting men—over 600 in number, as I ascertained—had had their bread and coffee, most of them dispersed, though a few "repeated" in order to get a second helping. A number of them hung around until they could get a chance to ask the manager of the restaurant for work. But there was no chance for any one, though the refusal was not made unpleasantly.

From the bakery I went back to the Bowery Mission. A thousand men are fed every night at the Bowery Mission—sometimes more. It is the aim at both this place and at Fleischmann's to send no one away hungry, but just now the demand is much in excess of that usual at this time of year.

One sees at these two places the men who are in actual need of food and drink. The street beggars are in nine cases out of ten unworthy of notice. But the man or woman who doubts the distress—the real need of food among the unemployed—should spend a couple of hours at the two places I have described, and he or she will be convinced that there is no lack of opportunity for the offices of the Good Samaritan, and no excessive crowding in the ranks of helpless of unfortunate humanity.

Bronze Statue of Schiller.

The bronze statue of Schiller by Hermann Matzen, which is to be erected in Cleveland by German citizens, has been completed in Berlin. The poet is seated in an arm chair. A Berlin paper is quoted as remarking apropos that "the German who goes to America becomes an American in all that the word implies, but even unto the third generation he is loyal to German poetry and German song."

Good Roads.

Out of the 900 towns in the State of New York, 600 have voted to have their roads built under the Fuller-Plank Act, or, as it is generally called, the money system. The matter is now optional with the towns, but in the opinion of persons who have given the matter considerable attention the idea of making it compulsory is favored.—Good Roads Magazine.

SELLS HIS BLOOD AT BARGAIN RATE

Man Charges $10 to Give Up 15 Ounces of Life Fluid to Save Boy's Life.

PATIENT'S FATHER CLOSES DEAL

Transfusion Operation is Made as Soon as the Bargain Between Buyer and Seller Was Struck—Man and Boy Eyed Each Other During Operation.

New York City.—Human blood went at bargain-counter prices in Bellevue Hospital when for $10 a guest of Mills Hotel No. 3 sold fifteen ounces of his life fluid, thereby probably saving the life of John Dennison, 15 years old, a patient suffering from malignant growth on the right leg. There was nothing heroic about the manner in which the man sold his blood. It was purely a business proposition. The Mills Hotel man needed the ten-spot and felt he could spare the blood. The father of the patient, though poor, felt he could spare the $10 in view of his son's need for the fresh blood.

Striking a bargain between buyer and seller was easy. Dennison's father went to Mills Hotel No. 3 and announced he was in the market for human blood. He explained that his son was in Bellevue Hospital and that the surgeons were anxious to transfuse the blood of a healthy person into the body of the boy.

"The doctors want a strong man who is healthy in every way," the father explained.

A guest registered as Mark Owen, who refused to tell anything further about himself, stepped forward, and remarked he would like to know more about it.

Big, broad-shouldered, with the glow of health in his cheeks, he looked as if he would pass the test of the physicians. "I guess you'll do," said Dennison. "How much blood do you want?" asked Owen.

"Fifteen ounces." "How much do I get?" "Ten dollars."

"I'm your man," and the bargain was struck. The rate was $6 2-3 cents an ounce. Up to Bellevue Hospital marched Dennison and Owen. The surgeons examined the man who was willing to sell fifteen ounces of his blood for $10, and told him he would do. The nature of the operation then was explained to him.

He was told that the patient was suffering from what is known as sarcoma, a malignant growth. To save the boy's life it was necessary to take from his body about sixteen ounces of the impure blood and transfuse in the body about fifteen ounces of healthy fluid.

"I don't want to be chloroformed during the operation," Owen said. "No anaesthetics will be given," replied one of the surgeons. "We'll deaden the pain by an injection of cocaine."

"Go ahead," said Owen. "I'm ready." Dennison was placed on the operating table and Owen was laid on another table. Between the two was a narrow table upon which the boy and the man each placed an arm. The surgeons made an incision in the boy's upper arm and blood was permitted to flow from the upper part of the median vein, while the lower part was closed. In this way the boy was relieved of about sixteen ounces of his impure and un-nourished blood. An incision then was made in the forearm of the man. The surgeons rapidly connected the lower ligament of the man's radial artery with the upper vein of the boy's arm, and the blood of the man began to pass into the body of the boy.

Dennison and Owen watched each other coolly throughout the operation. Not a whimper came from the boy, not a groan from the man. When the operation was over the boy's temperature showed marked improvement.

Owen was weak after the operation. He took a stimulant and then left the hospital, not forgetting, of course, to collect his $10 before leaving.

BURGARS' GAZETTE IN RUSSIA.

"Trades Paper" Contains All the News of the "Craft." St. Petersburg.—A "trade paper" for burglars is now published in St. Petersburg. It is called the "Bostatska Gazette," or the "Barefooted Gazette"—the title being apparently an allusion to the stealthy ways of its readers.

The paper contains full reports of the latest thefts and burglaries, articles by experts on the art of burglary and what to avoid in pursuing it, and columns of advice and hints to help the beginner. Naturally the paper is published in strict secrecy, but the police will sooner or later discover its printing office and suppress it.

WORTH ADVERTISING FOR.

There are 5,499 Negroes employed here in Washington by the Government alone, and these 5,499 Negroes draw salaries aggregating $3,044,404. These more than three millions of dollars are spent right here in Washington, but scattered among the hundreds of tradesmen. Is this amount of money worth bidding for? It certainly is, and not even the largest stores in this city would refuse to get the big end of it did they but realize how much money the Negroes are really spending.

Now The Bee is the only Negro publication in this city. It stands without a rival or competitor, and covers the field like a blanket. A few of the merchants in this city will patronize the advertising columns of The Bee, presenting the attractive bargains they may have, these Negroes—these 5,499 Negroes who draw annually from the Government over three millions of dollars—will assume that by patronizing a publication edited and operated by one of their race that such firms desire and deserve their patronage. And such firms will receive the bulk of these over three millions of dollars received and spent by the Negroes of Washington.

What clothing stores, what furniture stores, what dry goods stores, and what other lines of business will now make an effort to divert to themselves these over three millions of dollars spent by Washington Negroes by advertising in The Bee?

Place your advertising in The Bee and watch these 5,499 appreciative Negroes spend their over three millions of dollars with you. Now is the time to advertise in The Bee, the newspaper that goes into every Negro home in Washington. Remember, merchants of Washington, it's what advertising pays you, not what it costs.

DEATH TRAP FOR BIRDS.

Lighthouses on the Maine Coast Attract and Kill Thousands.

One of the keepers who came ashore from Boon Island recently tells the story of the strange death encountered by thousands of the migratory birds—every spring. Flying along the coast at night they are instantly attracted by the powerful light from the watch tower, as moths are drawn to a candle. Thousands of these birds in their passage north fly with full force against the thick glass of the brilliantly lighted lantern. Stunned to death they fall to the rocks below or scale away for a little distance and flutter helplessly into the water. The light of morning sometimes reveals the rocks covered with the little creatures whose journey to their summer homes has met this sudden and fatal termination. Hundreds of species are found among the unfortunate little tourists. Most of them are easily recognized as belonging to the various common classes of song birds. But very often large birds of beautiful plumage come to their final resting place in this manner upon the bleak rocks, of Boon Island. On one occasion several years ago the thick glass of the lantern was shattered to atoms by the impact of some strange bird of powerful bill.—York Transcript.

Fires Started by Moths.

Moths and flames are universally connected, yet few people suspect that danger could arise therefrom. The insects are of such frail structure that generally they get destroyed before it is possible for them to inflict injury, and it is hardly creditable that the wings would ignite and retain the flames long enough to enable the moth to fly to its surroundings.

That, however, has occurred. The moth was a very large one and its wings must have been very dry, so that when it floundered through the flame it set fire to one wing and darted out to a curtain nearby which at once flared up. It is possible that many summer evening fires in the country could be attributed to a source of this kind. It is notorious that mysterious fires often arise at sunset in the hot months.—Strand Magazine.

As History Might Be Taught.

Another way of teaching history which the schools might adopt has apparently not appealed to them. A good newspaper, if the teacher knows how to interpret its daily record, may stimulate an interest in history itself. If the pupil can be taught the continuity and relation of events, an awakened interest in the daily happenings will arouse a desire to trace them back through preceding stages. It is the break in continuity between the past and the immediate present that deadens enthusiasm. By studying history backward from the immediate present this chasm would be bridged and the passion for tracing to cause stimulated.—Boston Transcript.

STRATEGICAL USES OF A WEASEL.

The Clever Little Weasel and His Means of Defense.

Take another of our animals, the little weasel, clad in summer in a coat of brown, in winter turning white, but always with a jet black tip to the tail. The ermine, as it is incorrectly called in its winter coat has an easy time of it, sneaking upon the mice and birds upon which it preys, but when a hawk takes after it in an open field in the sunlight or at owl in the moonlight, it would have but short shift with all its sinuous leaping, were it not that the black tail tip is so conspicuous that it constantly attracts the eye and allows the pure white of the body to be confused with the snow. Even when we place a dead weasel on the snow and look at it from a distance, we realize how true this is, and how valuable must be the pencil tufts of black hairs to this little vermin who spends his life in hunting or being hunted.—The Outing Magazine.

Everyone of Them a Bird.

A current newspaper item is as follows: "The wife of a Methodist minister in West Virginia, has been married three times. Her maiden name was Partridge; her first husband was named Robin; her second husband, Sparrow; and the present one's name is Quail. There are now two young Robins, one Sparrow, and three little Quails in the family. One grandfather was a Swan, and another was a Jay; but he's dead and now a bird of Paradise. 'They live on Hawk-ave., Eagle-ville, Canary islands, and the fellow who wrote this article is a lyre bird and an interesting relative of the family.'"

Arctic Dog Life.

Nowhere in the world has the dog such unrestricted right of way as in our most northerly possession—Alaska. In winter, when the more than 60,000 square miles of territory are sealed up in solid ice, dogs are almost the sole means of getting from place to place—in fact, they seem necessary to life itself.

The aristocrats of Arctic dog life are the mail teams in the service of the United States Government. They are to-day a superior breed to the dogs employed some half dozen years ago before great gold discoveries demanded increased mail service.—St. Nicholas.

Names that Don't Name.

Many chemical names convey no exact idea of the things they stand for. Oil of vitriol is no oil, neither are oils of turpentine and kerosene. Copperas is an iron compound and contains no copper. Salts of lemon is the extremely poisonous oxalic acid. Carbolic acid is not an acid but an alcohol. Cobalt contains none of that metal but arsenic. Soda water has no trace of soda, and sugar of lead has no sugar; cream of tartar has nothing of cream, nor milk of lime any milk. German silver has no silver and blacklead no lead.

Dogs Around Blacksmith Shops.

Two or three dogs are nearly always to be found loafing about every blacksmith shop. This fact is so well recognized that detectives when sent out after valuable dogs that have been lost invariably visit first all the blacksmith shops in the neighborhood. The reason why dogs visit the blacksmith shops is that they love inordinately the odor and the taste of burning heels. They sniff the odor as a woman sniffs a rose, and they eat the hoof parings as a gourmet eats truffles.—Minneapolis Journal.

Supply of Gold.

It is mainly from Africa, America and Australia that the world draws its supply of gold, some $400,000,000 worth won regularly every year. Africa leads with about $150,000,000; next comes the United States with about $95,000,000; Australia ranks third with some $85,000,000, while Russia, both in Europe and Asia, Mexico, Canada and several other countries, make up the remainder.

A Long Sleep.

An astonishing trance case has come to light in Berlin. A clerk, aged 46—a healthy normal man—suddenly fell asleep in June 1904. All efforts to awaken him were unsuccessful and the sleeper since then has never opened his eyes. He breathes regularly and swallows his food mechanically, but is insensible to the severest attempts to arouse him.

Lace Curtains.

Lace window curtains should always be soaked for an hour in cold water to which a little borax has been added, before being put into warm suds. This gets out the smoky smell that is sometimes so noticeable in curtains that have been used in a city.

THE NIGHT RIDERS AIDED KENTUCKY

Original Organization Did Away with Toll Gates and Brought About Good Roads.

COMPANIES DISOBEYED THE LAW

Crimes Committed Now Are by Gangs Hiding Behind Name of Old Association Which Caused the Abolishment of the Turnpike Companies.

Louisville, Ky.—There has not been, it is said, a crime of mob violence committed in this State, in Tennessee, or, in fact, in any of the Southern States or in any of the Middle Western States in the past several years, with the exception of the occasional lynching of a negro by a mob, that has not been shouldered on the Night Riders.

The Night Riders were an organized body back in 1900, when the State Legislature passed a law doing away with private ownership of State roads. For months the turnpike corporations refused to obey the State laws. They appealed to the State Supreme Court, then to the Court of Appeals, and lastly to the United States Supreme Court, and on each appeal they would get a stay, which made it possible for them to continue running their toll gates and charging two cents a mile for every horse or vehicle that passed over their property.

Because of the law's delay the condition of the roads became impossible. The owners of the turnpikes would not expend one cent for improvements as long as there was question of their losing their property by a final court decision, but they did not cease to mulct travelers. All this while they refused to accept the fair price offered by the State for their roads.

It was then that the Night Riders were organized. The organization spread from Shelby County to every part of the State, and one night in the late fall men rode from their homes and began burning toll gates.
There is no record of a toll gate keeper being injured unless he showed resistance. Then he was taken from the house, and if he continued to be defiant he was flogged. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the toll gate keeper was glad to give up his job and let the gate burn.

Night Riders undoubtedly brought the turnpike corporations to terms.
There was not a toll gate left standing in the State of Kentucky by the following spring. Had the taxpayers and farmers been contented to allow the law to take its never ending course the chances are that toll gates would still be holding up travelers on the State roads to-day, and that the roads would have been worse now than they were when the Night Riders became organized.

The Kentucky roads now are among the best in the United States.
There are not millions of dollars of watered stock on which to pay interest, and the State tax has improved them and even made it possible for almost all of them to be sprinkled with oil during the summer season, thus laying the dust.

The success of the Night Riders in the war against toll gates led to an organization of a similar character when the fight was waged against the American Tobacco Company. But out of this last organization there grew a body of violent men, who live on excitement and thrive on lawlessness. Then sprang up, too, lawless bodies of men in many of the Southern and Middle Western States, who chose to call themselves Night Riders, though the probabilities are that 99 per cent.
of the men didn't own so much as a horse to ride.

If a list of the original body of Night Riders could be had the chances are that the names of many men who figured in the operations of the old Ku-Klux gang would be found, and if this list were sifted down it would show that many property-owners and men of prominence had resorted to violence because of their belief that action was their only safeguard against ruin, and that a defiance of law had to be met by a like defiance.

Psyche Knot a Life Saver.
Altoona, Pa.—Having washed and dried her hair, Mary Housner, aged twenty-two, did it up in a Psyche knot and walked out on the front porch. While she leaned against the railing it gave way and she was precipitated backward, head first, ten feet to the sidewalk, alighting on her head. The coflure broke the impact of her head against the flagstones, but she did not entirely escape injury.

She suffered a slight concussion of the brain, but recovered consciousness a few hours later.

Old Age Common in Rochefort.
Paris, France.—Rochefort seems to be a great town for longevity. Investigation of the records reveals the fact that during the last century from January 1, 1891, to December 31, 1900, 144 persons in Rochefort attained the age of 90 or over. Two of these were centenarians, one reaching the age of 103, and the other dying at 104.

AW. ED DEATH IN DESERT.

Body of B. T. Pratt, Dead from Hunger and Thirst, Found in California.

Los Angeles, Cal.—"Water, if I could only find water! I'm suffering terribly from hunger. To-day I ate some green grass, but I can't go any more. I wonder how long it will take to die."

These entries in the notebook of B. T. Pratt, whose body was found on the desert in Inyo county by two prospectors, give pathetic evidence of the suffering the man underwent as he watched the approach of death far from human habitation. The diary also was found by G. W. Lewis and S. E. Shattuck, the prospectors while on a trip through the Argus Mountains in Inyo county. Pratt had been dead nearly two months. He was evidently trying to reach the mountains, where he knew he would find food of a sort and water in abundance, but within sight of his refuge he gave out and could go no further. Pratt was sixty years old.
The entries in the notebook were scribbled and began only when the man found he was in danger of dying.

"Food gave out to-day; guess I can make Argus," was the entry for August 3, seven days after he had started to cross the desert. "Water gone," told the story of the following day.

For one whole day he went without water or food, but maintained an optimistic spirit, as is witnessed by the following entry for August 6:
"Signs of water about half mile ahead. There will be green stuff there too. Will reach it early in the morning." But evidently the desert was playing tricks on him, as it so often does by means of a mir-age. Two days later came the two entries quoted first. The last entry reads:—

"I left Grapeville, Inyo county,
Cal., July 28. Tom Spratt told me I would perish. I thought I could make it, but got lost, so guess I will have to give in. I have no water, nothing to eat and can't walk.
I have brothers, C. H. Pratt, at Hanner Springs, Wyandotte county, Kan.; E. B. Pratt, in St. Louis, and W. R. Pratt, Custer county, Wyo-ning."

LONGEST AUTO FREIGHT LINE.

Cars Will Carry 27 Passengers and 10 Tons of Freight.

Spokane, Wash.—What is believed to be the longest automobile freight and passenger stage line on the continent is in operation between Ore-ville and Brewster in Okanogan County, Wash., connecting with a steamer line to Wenatchee.

The line has two 60-horse power cars, which will carry twenty-seven passengers and ten tons of freight, making the run of eighty miles in eight hours. The trip by wagon occupies almost two days. Branch lines will also be established to other points in the Okanogan county. The other line is between Marcus and Kettle Falls in Stevens County, north of Spokane, connecting with a steamer to Spokane Falls.

These cars will be of twenty-five and thirty horse power, respectively.
F. L. Barney has charge of the automobile line, while Capt. Bruce A.
Griggs, a veteran river man, will operate the steamer line.

HAS A RABBIT PLAGUE.

Bold Cottontails Destroy Crops on California Ranches.

San Francisco, Cal.—Jack rabbits are said to be so numerous in the Antelope valley of California that the ranchmen are in despair. The animals are becoming so fierce that they are actually breaking down the fences around the adjacent fields and eating crops down to the roots. Not content with this, they are swarming into the desert towns and invading front yards of the dwellers.

Citizens of Lancaster turned out recently and made a round-up. They put up a fence across the road between fences surrounding fields on each side and in short time drove in and killed with clubs five hundred jack rabbits.

EAGLE KILLS A SHARK.

Ship's Crew Witness Desperate Fight in Chesapeake Bay.

Baltimore.—A remarkable combat between a large eagle and a shark was witnessed recently by Captain Henderson and the crew of the steamer Tanager in Chesapeake Bay. When coming out of Occohanock Creek they saw the eagle dive and come to the surface with a shark. Then followed a fierce struggle, the shark pulling the eagle under the water until it was almost exhausted. The fish was finally killed and floated dead on the water.
Members of the steamer's crew put off in a small boat and captured the eagle, although it clawed them repeatedly and its mate, hovering close by, tried to attack them.

Shot an Albino Squirrel.

Marquette, Mich.—While hunting near Grand Marais, Gustav Herbert shot and killed an albino squirrel.
It has been presented to James Cairns, of Grand Marais, and will be mounted. Albino deer are occasionally killed in upper Michigan, but this is the first time of which there is record that a white squirrel has been bagged.

HOLDING PROBATE COURT.
No. 1441, Administration.

This is to give notice that the subscriber, who was by the supreme court of the district of Columbia granted letters testamentary on the estate of Horace Orrill, deceased, has with the approval of the supreme court of the district of Columbia, holding a Probate Court, appointed Monday the 22d day of August, 1909, at 10 o'clock A. M., as the time and said court room as the place, for making payment and distribution from said estate, under the court's direction and control, when and where all creditors and persons entitled to distributive shares or legacies or a residue, are notified to attend in person, or by agent or attorney duly authorized, with their claims against the estate properly vouched.

Given under my hand this 15th day of July, 1909.
By Irving Williamson and Thomas Walker, Attorneys.
ATTEST: James Tanner, Register of Wills for the District of Columbia, Clerk of the Probate Court.

THOMAS WALKER, ATTORNEY.
SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

HOLDING PROBATE COURT.
Estate of Effie Ware, Deceased. No. 15782 Administration Docket.

Application having been made herein for probate of the last will and testament of said deceased, and for letters testamentary on said estate, by Edgar H. Foster, it is ordered this 15th day of July, A. D., 1909, that Robert Ware, whose last known place of residence was the Philippine Islands and all others concerned, appear in said court on Tuesday, the 17th day of August, A. D., 1909, at 10 o'clock A. M., to show cause why such application should not be granted. ## Straighten Your Hair

DEAR SIR:—I have used only one bottle of your pomade and now I would not be without it, for it makes my hair soft and straight and easy to comb and also starts a new growth.
Mrs. W. F. WALKER, S. L. Harriman, Tenn.

Ford's Hair Pomade

(Formerly known as Ozonized Ox Marrow)
Fifty years of success has proved its merit. The use of Ford's Hair Pomade makes stubborn, harsh, kinky or curly hair straight, soft and glossy and easy to comb, and arrange in any style desired consistent with its length. Removes and prevents dandruff, invigorates the scalp, stops the hair from falling out or breaking off and gives it new life and vigor. Absolutely harmless—used with splendid results even on the youngest children. Delicately perfumed, its use is a pleasure, as ladies of refinement everywhere declare—Ford's Hair Pomade has imitators. Don't buy anything else alleged to be "just as good." If you want the best results, buy the best Pomade—it will pay you. Look for this name on every package.

If your druggist cannot supply you with the genuine, we will send you

WHEN YOU ORDER

WHISKEY

YOU SHOULD DEAL ONLY WITH A HOUSE WITH AN ESTABLISHED REPUTATION.

Beginning modestly in 1884 the Arey Distillery has grown until today it is one of the largest in the country.

The name Arey is synonymous of all that is clean, honest and skillful—the very acme of the distiller's art.

The growth of the Arey Distillery was accompanied by no blare of trumpets—it has been quietly, modestly and steadily forging ahead through the sheer merit of its product.

At first they employed the old primitive process of open kettle distillation—honest, but crude of course. But they were careful to adopt every invention tending to improve the quality of their product.

Hygienic safeguards, modern filters and the expert skill in selecting materials which comes only with years of painstaking and patient toil, today enables this distillery to make the finest "Old North Carolina Corn Whiskey" in the world.

The Arey brands are backed up by a reputation for honesty, for quality and for reliability gained by 25 years of square dealing.

If you want Whiskey you can have absolute faith in; the kind you can depend upon in the sick room, and which will give entire satisfaction for pleasurable drinking; the kind that is pure, old, mellow, tonicky and tasty, you'll make no mistake in ordering any of the AREY BRANDS.

THE MAGIC IS TWO TIMES LARGER THAN BEFORE IT IS IN LONG STEEL HEATING BAR.

THE MAGIC SHAMPOO DRIER AND HAIR STRAIGHTENER.

MAILED ANYWHERE IN U. S. $1.00 POSTAGE PAID—SEND MONEY BY POST OFFICE MONEY ORDER.

LADIES LOOK!

Every lady can have a beautiful and luxuriant head of hair if she uses a MAGIC. After a shampoo or bath the Magic dries the hair, removing the dandruff; and it will straighten the curliest head of hair.

The Magic will not burn or injure the hair, because the comb is never heated. The steel heating bar which runs the hair, is alone, put into the flame of the alcohol or gas heater.

The Aluminum Comb is easily detached from the heating bar, then, after the hair is heated the comb goes back into place and is held by a turn of the handle.

The Magic Heater is also suitable for curling irons, has a cover and can be carried in a hand bag. Magic Shampoo Drier $1.00. Magic Alcohol Heater $0.50. Liberal terms to agents. Write for literature today.
